

Christos Anastasiou

Associate Professor, Frederick University of Cyprus

Dr Christos Anastasiou is an Associate Professor of Environmental Engineering and the Dean of the School of Engineering at Frederick University. He is also an affiliated researcher at FRC. He also serves in the Socio-Economic Analysis Committee of the European Chemicals Agency. Prior to his current posts, he worked as a consultant and was a faculty member at the American University of Beirut in Lebanon, and at Harvard School of Public Health. Dr Anastasiou teaches courses in Environmental Engineering, Wastewater Treatment, in Environmental & Water Resources Management and in Sustainable Construction. Christos has been involved in a number of funded research efforts related to such topics as water quality management, the development of novel wastewater treatment methods, and the adaptation and implementation of Sustainable Construction practices in the Mediterranean region. Dr Anastasiou is a registered professional Civil/Environmental Engineer with the Cyprus Chamber of Engineers.